Straight Talk: Effective Practices to Support Students with Dyslexia (Webinar)
Wednesday, October 18, 2023, 3:30 P.M. to 4:30 P.M. (ET)

The spotlight on dyslexia has grown in recent years—and so have the myths and misconceptions about how to best support students who struggle to read.

Join us for a live webinar on Wednesday, October 18, for an in-depth discussion of what the research really says and how to choose an evidence-based approach that supports reading success for all students.

We'll also explore the complicated history of the term "dyslexia" in the field of education, and we'll share best practices for effective dyslexia screening, progress monitoring, and multi-tiered instruction that incorporates the Science of Reading. Learn more and register.

AppSmashing with ChatGPT October 12, 3:30 P.M. to 4:30 P.M.

Participants will learn exactly what ChatGPT is, how to access it, and how to use it to assist with instructional tasks in the classroom.

We'll start by sharing an abundance of use cases for classrooms of any grade level and content area, and then take it one step further by exploring the places you can take that content. There are so many websites, resources, and apps that teachers can use to appsmash. Plus, they can leverage the content produced by ChatGPT to streamline their teaching! (Free with OTIS Free Basic Account Membership)

More info and registration can be found on our Corporate Partner Offerings page.

Check out Teq's Free Offerings page. Some of the current offerings are listed below and so many more are available on their site. Offerings are free with your OTIS Free Subscription. More info can be found on our Corporate Partner Offerings page.
